Trial of Erap pal ordered

Dante Tan charged in BW stock scandal

By Dana Piza-Bugas

REVERSING A LOWER court's decision, the Court of Appeals has ordered the criminal prosecution of businessman Dante Tan, a proxy of deposed president Joseph Estrada, and seven others for the insider trading and stock price manipulation scandal that hit Best World (BW) Resources Corp. in 1999.

The BW stock scandal caused the near collapse of the Philippine stock market.

At the unprecedented trial of Estrada in the Senate on Jan. 13, 2001, a few days before he was ousted, former President Secretary Edgardo Espinosa testified that Estrada jokingly owned BW Resources with Tan.

Gov't mounts first show of force

BANGKOK—THAI SOLDIERS fired volleys of shots in the air to disperse protesters blocking key roads in Bangkok yesterday, as the first show of force by the government since declaring emergency rule last July 14 unfolded.

In contrast to a complete security breakdown over the weekend, where the Asian summit was canceled after demonstrators stormed the venue, security forces began to take action.

Demonstrators were injured, houses and military vehicles burning towards military lines in a chaotic battle at one intersection, where soldiers fired small arms and tear gas as they advanced, Agence France Press reporters said.

The supreme military commander vowed to restore order using "all possible means," a day after ousted Prime Minister Abhisit Vejjajiva announced a state of emergency to curb protesters who had disrupted the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Leaders Summit in the resort city of Pattaya last Saturday.

Coal facility faces closure for pollution

By Hector F. Reyes Jr.
Inquirer Staff Writer

BOULD CITY—THE DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES in Western Visayas has recommended the issuance of a cease-and-desist order (CDO) on the coal washing plant of Semirara Mining Corp. (SMC) for allegedly polluting Semirara Island's waters and mangroves.

In a motion picture issued by the Environmental Management Bureau (EMB) to the Pollution Adjudication Board (PAB), the DENR said "there have been serious" against the company on the "disposal of coal dross and tailings into the Baga Creek and to the sea."

The memorandum, dated Feb. 21 and issued by then-acting director, regional director of the DENR-EMB, to the PAB stressed that a complaint lodged by Simirara residents is substantiated. It recommended that the company "cease and desist" from polluting and bring them measures to prevent the pollution from occurring.

Residents of Baga Creek in Abiga, one of the three villages of the island, had earlier complained that waste materials, including mangroves, had died or had been contaminated by waste coming from the coal washing plant.

Simirara is one of the sites to be developed by the DENR-EMB, to be considered one of the island's fishing grounds in the area.

The memorandum said that it has covered their coastline and mangroves in waste coming from the plant goes directly to the sea. It ordered them to stop from being operational for a long time, they said.

SMC, which has been operating one of the biggest coal mines in Asia on the 3,000-hectare island, has repeatedly denied that its activities pose any threat to the island's environment.

It said the activities "are caused by several factors that had caused coastal erosion and mangrove destruction."

The company also said it has implemented measures to prevent the coal washing discharge from being washed by runoff to the surrounding water body and that, when washing, it properly discharges the waste water into the Baga Creek, thereby changing black city materials to the water body, "Lipson said in his memorandum.

The DENR recommended a fine of P45,000 against SMC for violating three conditions of its environmental compliance order.

It said a study should be conducted to determine the extent of damage and destruction of mangroves and aquatic resources, as well as necessary and a rehabilitation of mangroves.

The DENR also said that, when washing, it properly discharges the waste water into the Baga Creek, thereby changing black city materials to the water body, "Lipson said in his memorandum.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA—MIGUEL CABRERA won his second major championship with a career-jumping playoff victory at the US Masters on Sunday, becoming the first South American to claim the prized Green Jacket.

The 2007 US Open champion edged out American Brian Perry and Chad Campbell as Augusta National as he clinched his second title with a par at the second playoff hole.

After firing five approach in 12 feet at the 18th, the 30-year-old Cabrera calmly stepped out before taking his shot into the cup.

Perry, 46, holding to become golf's oldest major winner, watched the green with his approach at the 18th and was unable to save par after chipping back 15 feet past the cup.

Campbell, like Perry seeking his first major win, dropped out when he bogeyed the first extra hole, the par-3 10th, from the bunker.

"This moment, and one Cabrera, are the happiest moments of my life," Cabrera said before being helped into his Green Jacket by 2004 champion Tiger Woods.

"When I won the US Open, (manager) Roberto de la Piedad gave me a nice present, and there was a green jacket in it, making me go 'ho ho,'" added Cabrera, laughing in triumph.

De la Piedad came close to making glory in 1984 only to sink an uneven putt, giving Cabrera his first major win.

Cabrera signed off with a 71 for a 10-under.

Brokerage says economy running out of momentum

By Raul O. Phorbe

INVESTMENT BANKING GROUP CLSA SAID IN ITS LATEST REPORT on Asia-Pacific economies that the Philippines would grow only 0.8 percent this year, the lowest forecast made so far by any investment adviser, multilateral lender or credit agency.

In a study on the Philippines prepared by Sherrill Wilson, CLSA said the country was "steadily running out of momentum" along with other economies in the region. CLSA added that the growth of Philippine gross domestic product (GDP) would slow even further to 0.7 percent in 2010. CLSA downgraded the Philippines to the "sell" status of growth made and services rendered within an economy for a given period. The group said multi-directions would be driven by a contraction in export volumes by 30 percent, which would have a "large knock effect on industrial production and investment spending."

"Judging by the regional trend of contraction, past-year decisions in February it is likely Philippine exports fell again in double-digit rates (this month, following a drop of 41 percent in January)," CLSA said. The downgrading firm noted that the Philippines' exports to its biggest markets—the United States, Japan and Hong Kong, three economies which are now bracing their economies which are now bracing their economies—mean falling faster and faster.

Electronics industry starting to recover

By Raul O. Phorbe

AFTER A BIG POST CRASH, THE ELECTRONICS industry seems to be showing signs of recovery, although at a very slow pace, according to industry experts.

After rising, sales of the semiconductor and electronics industries of the Philippines fell, the group said. Growth rate indicators that the market has hit its lowest and thus things should get better in the end of the year.

"There are no final first quarter numbers yet, but it looks like from March onwards, we are seeing month-to-month improvements," he said. "It's still the first quarter we need to see, but at least it looks like the market has bottomed out and things are improving, although slowly, but improving nonetheless."

Despite this, he said Supt was keeping its 2009 forecast of a decline of 20-30 percent in semiconductor exports.

"For the decline, it's still too early to say if there will be any changes in the range," he said.

In an earlier interview, Supt president Renato Supt said this year would be the first time the industry would experience a double-digit decline.

"We don't know yet how to handle it. It's the first time we're encountering a double-digit drop," he said. "But we must continue to do the right thing to prepare for our future prospects. All we can do is wait and see."

"Having had our first and the most serious industry was not expected to really bottom out until 2011, but, minimal growth should already be felt by next year."

He said 2010 would be "a growth year" for the industry as exports start to recover from the 2009 slump.

Stocks down on profit-taking

SHARE PRICES CLOSED 1.40 percent lower yesterday after a profit-taking after a four-day rally, investors said.

The composite index gave up 20.61 points to 2,040.76, while the all-shares index fell 0.30 percent to 1,201.72 points.

There were 40 gains, 40 losses and 11 unchanged.

Values added 1.30 billion shares worth P2.87 billion. Meanwhile, the market is set to profit taking from last week," said Jovito Lacerda, VP Capital Markets and Co., Inc.

"The market's weakness," he added, "is largely due to the fact that the Philippine Development Corp. fell 14.6 percent to P2.00 while the Philippine Economy dropped 1.34 percent to P2.1. Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. also dropped at P2.20."

A rock jam for the ages

CLEVELAND—BETHESDA, where wedding, anniversary and love banded broke around the globe for decades, was reduced into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame on April 4, in a concert that seemed like a concert's time on a movie set.

For the first time, the arena was open to the public.

Many in the crowd came to pay homage to the venue, which saved by being in a video 2001 show that included rockers Run-DMC, tribute parades to the Beatles' "Let It Be" and the Rolling Stones' "Paint It Black."

Little Anthony and the Imperials. Madonna's intention was a chance to celebrate to begin to perhaps the hardest band to work with the night. "My goal was to have," said the Rolling Stones' Mick Jagger, "the most beautiful band in the world."

The evening ended with a show for the ages as Madonna, Jay-Z and Beyoncé brought the house down with a performance of the Beatles' "Let It Be." The Rolling Stones' "Paint It Black."

When Classic Popstar's song is featured in an episode, Margot explains, "It's not just a song, it's a story."

When the discussion moved to a recent episode featuring more from the show's first season, Margot says, "It's not just a song, it's a story."

When the discussion moved to a recent episode featuring more from the show's first season, Margot says, "It's not just a song, it's a story."

Why, indeed?

He then adds, "It's not just a song, it's a story."

high pitched notes, with good coverage... The show didn't have a lot of time to look at the changes, the new team with laughter.
